

DEMOCRATS MUST INTRODUCE BILL

Mr. Clayton Says Give Party Something to Go Before People With.

WASHINGTON, December 28.—The work of preparing the revised tariff bill was resumed to-day by the subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee. Two meetings were held to-day, and there is every likelihood that the tariff-framing committee, which consists of the Republican members of the full committee, will continue to hold daily meetings until the time comes to report the bill to Congress at the special session in March.

Henry D. Clayton, of Alabama, chairman of the Democratic caucus of the House of Representatives, to-day expressed his views as to the Democratic attitude in the proposed revision of the tariff. "I have the most implicit confidence in the capacity of Clayton and his Democratic associates of the Ways and Means Committee," said Mr. Clayton, "and would in no particular invade their appointed jurisdiction to speak for my party in committee deliberations on the tariff."

"Indeed, I would vote for any revenue measure they might propose, but as a Democrat and the representative of a constituency grievously oppressed by the exactions for private interests of the Dingley law, I do not believe it impertinent on my part to offer some suggestions."

"In my opinion it is not sufficient for the Democrats in the next Congress to assume an attitude of simple negation, and merely oppose what the Republicans offer. We must formulate an entire tariff bill covering every schedule from sugar to zinc, and go to the committee of the whole with it, champion it, demand division on its every schedule and ask for the yeas and nays on it in the House. The bill should be carefully considered in principle and in detail; in short, it should be a measure we can go to the country on."

"The Democrats are accused of picking things to pieces; let us show that we can put things together as the old party did in the time of Jackson and Polk. We can do it. It only requires a bit of effort."

"Then we are to get, so it is said, the maximum and the minimum, which is only another name for reciprocity. Of course, the Republicans will insist on making the maximum as big as they dare; but our bills might fit in for the minimum in time of the schedules, and let us press it."

"The Republicans are thundering in the index. They cannot revise the tariff down. Who gathers figs from thistles, or grapes from thorns? And yet that is the cry of figs and grapes from Cannon, Aldrich, Burrows, Dingley and Company will give us."

"We want a complete bill on which to go to the country in 1910."

WITNESS WEEPS; BLAMES HIMSELF

entered the inclosure where counsel were seated. The defendant took his mother by the hand and talked to her a few moments, while she wept softly. Mrs. Hains then went to the far side of the trial chamber, where she sat with Major Hains. Thornton kept his eyes on his mother for some time after she had taken her seat. It was the first time Mrs. Hains had seen her son in court.

Mr. Weaver, resuming the stand, said that after their business in Boston, he and Captain Hains went back to the train. "He still continued to pull his hair, twist his mouth and whisper," said the witness. "On the train his actions continued, and the whisper said: 'My God, Weaver, my home is all gone.'"

Returned to New York, Mr. Weaver said he took Captain Hains to Thornton Hains' home in Brooklyn. "Captain Hains frequently said: 'It's too bad, Weaver, too bad.'"

"This trip was about August 1st. 'From your observations of his conduct during that trip, how would you characterize his conduct?'"

"Irrational."

Mr. Weaver described the appearance of Captain Hains on August 15th, saying his eyes were staring and glassy, and that his face twitched. His appearance was worse than when he returned from the Philippines, said Mr. Weaver.

Mr. White cross-examined Mr. Weaver, who said he had been identified with Hains' concrete concern for four years. General Hains was president of the company, he said.

Saw the shooting. James Tierney said he went to the Haystack Club on August 15th. "I saw the boat coming and saw Captain Hains go toward the boat," said Tierney.

He stooped down and grabbed the boat, and commenced shooting. The shots were all fired in a jiffy. After the shooting I saw 'Big John' grab the captain and shake him. I don't know whether he knocked the gun from the captain's hands or not. I saw Mr. Roberts go and get the gun. I saw the defendant run down the runway after the shooting and lead the captain away.

"The defendant did not draw his gun," said Mr. Roberts. "I saw the captain, Thornton Hains, said: 'This is my brother. I'll take care of him. Get a policeman.'"

"Did the defendant point his revolver at any one on the float?"

"He did not."

"Did you see Mrs. Annis on the float at the time of the shooting?"

"No, I did not see any women on the float."

"Did you hear anything like shouting?"

"Yes. There was shouting on the boat."

The witness said that he remained on the float about five minutes, and was ordered away. Tierney said the defendant did not say, "The first man to move will get the same."

"Did the defendant put the pistol to

HE PUTS SICK FISH BACK "IN THE SWIM"

New York Man Conducts Unique Hospital for the Finny Tribe.

NEW YORK, December 28.—Cat and dog hospitals, and even doll hospitals, have been familiar to New Yorkers, but it will be news to most of them that there is a sanatorium for fishes, and that patients are sent from as far away as France to seek the advice and care of the specialist who heads the institution.

Gustav A. Kubler, of 813 Ellismer Place, is the fish doctor. His well-equipped hospital for unfortunate fishes, which have met with accident, and sporty fishes that have lived not wisely but too well, is in the basement of his house. There are accommodations for 500 patients. At present there are 100 sitting fishes under his care.

Kubler works without pay, impelled merely by his desire to learn all that may be learned of the inner workings of fishes, and his advice as an expert is sought by the director of the Aquarium and by the United States Department of Agriculture.

At present he has under his care a fringe-tail goldfish from Paris. This glided gentleman is suffering from a fungus growth, which is eating away the long fringing fins from which he takes his name, and which are his chief beauty.

The patient from Paris is only one of many that have got back into the swim through the good offices of Mr. Kubler.

There are tanks in the Kubler Hospital for each sort of disease, and as soon as the patient yields to treatment he is put in a large compartment, which is reserved for convalescents.

Among the patients at present under treatment are white and yellow perch, American goldfish, Japanese goldfish from Tokio, sunfish, catfish, mirror carp, pearl roach, American roach and a sucker.

The white perch is suffering from cancer of the tail and scales, the yellow perch from tuberculosis. The American goldfish's tail is turning from gold to silver. The catfish has a broken nose, and the mirror carp has an acute attack of indigestion. The pearl roach and his American brother have colic. The sucker has nearly all the troubles of the others and a few of his own.

LABOR FOR CANAL IS OVER-SUPPLIED

Question Now Is to Find Work for the Men Already There.

WASHINGTON, D. C., December 28.—With the early arrival in Washington from Paris of Leroy Parks, of the Ismailian Canal Commission, there will be a large number of men in the construction of the canal. Officials of the commission are now certain that they have solved the labor problem that was once vexing, and acting on that judgment have instructed Mr. Parks, its labor agent in Europe, to close his office in Paris and to return to the United States.

The withdrawal of the European labor agents is not designated to stop immigration from Europe to the zone, but is in harmony with the closing of labor agencies in various parts of the world. Instead of three agencies in the United States, the number has been reduced to one, with Henry A. Smith in charge in New York, and instead of two in the West Indies henceforth there will be only one, and that in the Bermudas. The one in the Bermudas and the one located in New York will be the only agencies maintained by the government.

It is explained at the offices of the commission in this city that more laborers are going to the zone than are leaving, and that the zone is over-populated there. The time has arrived, it is said, when the maximum force has been employed. Henceforth the work in the zone is to be confined to actual canal building—that is, to excavation and dam and lock construction. Building and municipal work, erecting houses, installing water and sewer systems and road-making are said to have reached the stage where most of the laboring men are required to be for maintenance.

Men previously employed in these lines of work are being transferred to other departments, and the demand for new men has materially been reduced.

The bulk of the manufacturing heretofore done in the zone is no longer necessary, as the heads of the various divisions of work are now able to estimate six months ahead, thus enabling them to purchase in the States.

Keeping the unskilled labor already employed busy is the problem, it is explained, and many who have been on the ground, rather than that of getting more men. It is found helpful to keep one of two agencies open, in order to supply laborers for emergency and to guard against any contingency.

Local Stock Gossip

After three days' holiday, the local stock exchange yesterday displayed considerable strength and some activity. Traders who came downtown bearishly inclined, owing to the probable bad effect the failure of H. W. Root & Co. in New York might have, changed their minds when the New York market opened buoyant at higher prices than the closing day of Thursday. The bidding up of stocks in New York had its effect on the local market, and when the latter opened there was evidently a desire to follow the "big change." While there were few actual transactions, the bidings were aggressive, and what sales were made were at higher prices.

The feature of the day was the strength in Virginia Century bonds, $14,000 changing hands at 94 1/2. In the stock list Chemical common was strong, sales being made at 44 3/4. While the market was generally buoyant, the closing was not so strong. The bidding up of stocks in New York had its effect on the local market, and when the latter opened there was evidently a desire to follow the "big change." While there were few actual transactions, the bidings were aggressive, and what sales were made were at higher prices.

The New York market was quite active and priced strength was noted throughout the entire list. Stocks in which Richmond is interested were very buoyant, notably Southern Railway, preferred, which sold as high as 61 1/2, a new high record for several months. There was no news to account for the sudden rise in the stock, but the favorable monthly statement published yesterday morning.

Other issues of interest to the South in general, such as Louisville and Nashville, Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore and Ohio, Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake and Potomac, and the Erie, Great Northern preferred, St. Paul, Southern Pacific and the Washburn, were all strong and at higher levels.

In the industrial list Amalgamated Copper, American Smelters, Sloss-Sheffield, Pressed Steel Car and Steel, and United States Steel common and Colorado Fuel and Iron, were quite active and higher.

Chesapeake and Ohio, which was expected to have considerable further rise on the announcement of the listing on the New York stock exchange of $600,000 bonds and other news favorable to the stockholders, did not advance, but was held very firm around 58.

Minnesota Court Grants Order to Save the Fortune of an Old Farmer.

WINONA, MINN., December 28.—Miss Grace Loudon, twenty years old, has been enjoined by the District Court from speaking to or having any communication with Leroy Bell, sixty years old, a wealthy farmer.

The injunction was served on the young woman late yesterday afternoon by a deputy sheriff. She says, it is asserted, that she will ignore the order of the court and continue her relations with Bell. She declares she loves him.

It is alleged by relatives of Bell, who got the injunction, that the young woman controls the old farmer, and that she has already caused him to spend hundreds of dollars for diamonds and costly clothing. A few days ago, it is alleged, she caused a $10,000 farm to be sold in London. She is enjoined by the court from disposing of this property until a final hearing can be had.

MISS ROOSEVELT MAKES HER DEBUT

Brilliant Ball in the White House Introduces Her to Society.

WASHINGTON, D. C., December 28.—In the historic East Room of the White House, beautifully decorated for the occasion, President Roosevelt's youngest daughter, Ethel, to-night made her formal bow to society. Preceding the dancing in the East Room, which began at 10 o'clock, Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Roosevelt received the invited guests in the Blue Room. Miss Roosevelt's gown was of soft white satin trimmed with crystals, while that of her mother was of dark blue satin.

Seldom, if ever, has the East Room presented a more attractive picture. Seated on a platform at the north end of the room was the Marine Band Orchestra, whose brilliant scarlet uniforms against a background of green formed a rich frame for the beautiful color scheme, lavishly painted in the center of the room by the handsome gowns of the fair debutante. The invited guests numbered about 400, only unmarried members of the younger set participating in the dancing.

Among those present were Mrs. William S. Cowles and Mrs. Douglas Robinson, the President's two sisters; Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mrs. Emlen Roosevelt, Mrs. Simpkins, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bacon, Mrs. Charles A. Munn, Mrs. Richard Wayne Parker, and Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth. Theodore Roosevelt, who came home from Connecticut to spend Christmas with his parents at the White House, remained over to attend the dance.

At midnight the music ceased and the guests passed to a supper, which was served at small tables arranged along the lower corridor and rooms leading into the corridor.

Previous to the ball Miss Roosevelt was the guest of honor at a dinner given by Assistant Secretary and Mrs. Bacon at their residence.

Covers were laid for sixty, the whole party going later to the White House. Mrs. C. A. Munn also entertained a large house party which later went to the White House.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt are entertaining a house party for the dance, the party including Miss Josephine Osborne, Miss Ellen H. Rogers, Miss Cornelia Landon, Miss Madeline Bonland, Miss Janetta Alexander, Miss Virginia Murray, Miss Cutting, Henry Holt, Jr., Barclay Narr, Randall Clifford, L. Fairfield Osborn, Jr., Stephen L. Landon, Edmund Rogers, Monroe Robinson, Robert Potter, Charles Emory and Norman Armour, who arrived at the White House shortly after luncheon to-day.

FIVE AMATEURS ARE SUSPENDED

Men Took Part in the Recent Olympic Games in London.

NEW YORK, December 28.—There was an earthquake in amateur American athletic circles to-night, when announcement was made of the suspension of six prominent athletes, five of whom took part in the recent Olympiad at London. The suspended men, against whom the charge of professionalism was made, are Melvin W. Sheppard, Charles Bacon, Harry F. Porter and George V. Bonham, all of the Irish-American Athletic Club, and James J. Lee, of the Boston A. A., but now unattached.

The action taken to-night was the outcome of a searching investigation by the registration committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, which was conducted at the West Side Y. M. C. B. Building to-night. Chairman Oberhuber, of the registration committee, said he and his brother members had come to the conclusion that these athletes had probably obtained their demanding money beyond what might be termed legitimate expenses, characterizing the claims of some of them as exorbitant. He showed a statement of Melvin W. Sheppard, secretary of the Irish-American Athletic Club, which showed that Porter, Sheppard and Bonham had been paid, according to the ideas of the committee, sums far in excess of what were considered ordinary expenses of athletes in training camps at Buffalo on December 12th last.

Manchester people are laughing at the story coming from the North to the effect that Eddie Leonard, the famous boxer, had been killed by a girl on account of his negro blood. The citizens of the city do not doubt the truthfulness of the story, but the ridiculous part is that such an accusation could have been brought against the young man. Leonard, whose real name is Money, is a nephew of Mr. D. L. Toney, of this city, formerly a member of the Virginia Legislature, and president of the Manchester and Chesterfield Business Men's Association, and in other ways prominently connected in city affairs. Leonard, who is a resident of the city, and he has many relatives in the surrounding country. His family original came from the Potomac country, where they are well known.
